Get Strong on Beans.

From the state war board. Sammies are growing fat and strong on beans.

Of course they get other foods, too, but beans have long been a favorite army dish.

Beans are a "healthy food" and when housekeepers come to appreciate the food value of them and the varied ways of using them, this vegetable will appear on American tables many times.

They are grown right here in Illinois. If soy beans are not available at food in China for hundreds of years. They are grown right here in Ohio. If soy beans are not available at your dealers write the state bureau of markets or ask your dealer to write for you, and you will be put in touch with dealers handling them.

The excellent menu for a meatless day is beans, baked potatoes, slaw, corn bread and, for dessert, stewed fruit.

Spreading the Meat Taste.

In place of using meat to season beans, etc., as before the war, use fryings, such as bacon fryings and to increase the amount of fryings put some lard in the skillet when frying the meat; thus flavors all the grease with the bacon taste. Then pour these into a small crock.

This method increases the amount of fryings about one-half, and flavors things with the meat taste without the added expense.

Things Worth Knowing.

To Restore Velvet—When velvet gets crushed under pressure, hold the parts over the basin of hot water, with the lining of the article next to the water. The pile will soon rise and assume its original beauty.

When linen becomes slightly scorched when ironing, wet a piece of cloth with peroxide, place over scorched part, iron over it and scorch will disappear.

HEART and HOME PROBLEMS

MRS. ELIZABETH THOMPSON

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a girl 18 years of age, have dark hair and eyes, and am fair of complexion. Two of my greatest aims in life are to be beautiful and useful. I come to you for advice regarding dress.

I earn on an average of $4 a week and only work a small portion of the time. Although my parents are quite wealthy I am expected to clothe myself like other common girls. I do most of my sewing and crocheting.

I need a variety of clothes from a party dress to common kitchen dress. I have a reasonable line of good clothes at present, but will soon want new.

(1) Would it be advisable to get a suit now or wait until spring? I want something suitable to wear a year.

(2) Please tell me what colors to wear, and what to buy that will be serviceable, economical and attractive in the coming year.

A FRIEND IN NEED.

(1) Since you have so little money to do with you would be wise to buy your suit while suits are marked down. Get something which is marked with fur or one that can have the fur removed and not look badly. In summer you can wear white collars and cuffs and make the suit look suitable for that season.

(2) Taupe and navy blue will wear in spring suits. With your coloring you ought to be able to wear either shade.

I would suggest, little girl, that if you are desirous of being useful in life that you set some definite aim. Do not be contented to work a small part of the day if you have the whole day to yourself. It would be well for you to attend a commercial school and prepare yourself for a business life.

Uncle Sam is going to need his women badly and if you are ready you can be put to service within a year in the capacity of keeping business going while our boys are at war.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a girl 16 years of age. The other night one of my boy friends asked me to go to a party with him. I love him dearly and so was glad to go with him. This happened to be an all night affair but we had chaperons. It was a New Year's party. The whole night he was with another girl and left me alone. The next morning instead of taking me home he took the other girl home. It hurt my feelings because the other girl is one of my best friends. He is going to call me up some night this week, so please tell me whether to scold him or what to do.

WORRIED.

You are too young to go with boys. When this boy phones you tell him that he was decidedly rude when he took you to the New Year's party, and after such treatment you will not consider going with him again. Be brief and refuse to argue. And by all means refuse to have anything more to do with him.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: We are two girls 15 years old.

(1) Do you think we are too young to go with boys?

(2) Do you think we are too young to do our hair up on top of our heads?

(3) Do you think a girl looks tough if she wears her hair in dips?

(4) Would a girl get a tough name if she went to a skating rink?

(5) There are two boys we never met who made a date with us. We did not keep it. They asked us for another date and we refused. Do you think it would be all right for us to go with them?

(6) If a boy asks to kiss you is it a sign he loves you?

ATWOOD SISTERS.

(1) You are far too young.

(2) Yes.

(3) If a girl is tough it makes her look all the tougher to wear her hair in dips. A sweet, refined girl can wear her hair any way that is becoming and it does not make her look tough. Girls of 15 are too young to attend skating rinks, even if the rinks have good reputations, unless accompanied by an older member of the family.

(4) If a rink has a name for being tough a girl should not attend unless she is willing to class herself with the other tough people who attend. Girls of 15 are too young to attend skating rinks, even if the rinks have good reputations, unless accompanied by an older member of the family.

(5) It would not be all right to go with them. You should not have talked to them when they talked to you.

(6) No, indeed, it is not.

Cereal Loaf (for meatless day)—Two cups lima beans, one cup oatmeal, one-third cup peanut butter, one-half cup water that rice has been boiled in, two tablespoons minced onion, one tablespoon poultry seasoning, salt to taste, one slightly beaten egg. Soak beans over night, next morning drain, add water and boil until soft. Then put through food chopper. Add other ingredients and shape into a loaf. Place in pan in which one tablespoon drippings has been melted. Bake 30 minutes in moderate oven. Baste while baking. If too soft to shape, add bread crumbs.

Potato Pancakes (for meatless day)—Pare, wash and grate (raw) eight large potatoes. Add one cup sugar, one cup oatmeal sugar, one egg (more improves them), salt to taste (no flour). Beat well and fry like griddle cakes. Must be cooked slowly until a golden brown. Takes quite a while to fry them.
